Opposition Surfacing To PCH Elm Road Site

Shared once again in the bureaucratic net, Princeton Community Housing, Inc. learned to its dismay last week that officials in the Washington office of HUD had turned down PCH's request for an extension of a September 30 deadline.

But it looks as though all will be well, said Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley on Monday. It seems that Washington hadn't realized PCH has a new site for its senior-citizen housing. Apply again for the deadline extension, PCH officials were told.

"Newark officials said they were shocked by the rejection," reported PCH president Harriet Bryan. "They have been very supportive, and have already approved our new site."

A special Planning Board meeting will be held next Tuesday to pass a resolution of approval for PCH's project. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the Valley Road Building. A draft statement of approval prepared by Mayor Cawley, was read to the board last week, but a fuller statement is now being prepared by board member Margen Penick.

Mrs. Bryan and Mayor Cawley said they believed the resolution will pass the Planning Board without difficulty.

But opposition is beginning to grow. The new PCH site is off Elm Road on Borough-owned property known as the old sewer field. Neighbors who protest have begun to group, and to seek legal counsel. They have been invited by architect Jeremiah Ford to visit his office this Tuesday and look over his plans.

PCH is on the Borough Zoning Board agenda for next Thursday, July 22. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall.

The old PCH project, eliminated from the parking lot next to the library by the May 4 referendum, had 89 apartments for elderly and handicapped people of moderate income. On the new site there may well be 101 apartments. (Actually, it would be 100 apartments for the elderly, and one for the superintendent.)

Mrs. Bryan points out that HUD usually stipulates a minimum of 100 because that is the smallest number that can be built and managed

In Face of High Mortgage Rates, Many Homes Selling for Less Than Revaluation Figures

Ever since the post-war housing boom, Princeton real estate has been considered a sound investment.

Princeton was always viewed as a desirable place in which to live, and even if the purchase price of a home was high here in comparison to much of the rest of the nation, the homeowner felt he or she could count on a healthy increase in value between the time of purchase and subsequent re-sale several years later.

Until the 1980 revaluation at 100 percent of likely market value, there was, for many years, a gap between what a house was assessed for and what it fetched on the marketplace. That gap also contributed to the homeowner's sense of the ultimate

Stockman Introduces Bill to Restore Half Of $524,000 Cut from Princeton School Aid

Citing the "fiscal havoc" that school districts like Princeton face with all their minimum state aid eliminated, State Senator Gerald Stockman introduced a bill on Monday — S-1616 — designed to restore half of the reductions.

Princeton is one of 85 districts marked to lose all their minimum aid. For Princeton, the loss is $524,000. If Senator Stockman's bill passes, Princeton would receive $262,000.

The language of the bill states that this 50 percent restoration should "ease fiscal chaos" assuming districts use their surplus to fill the gap. The measure seeks to appropriate $7,050,000 for the aid of Princeton and the other districts.

The cut, Senator Stockman said, has been a "devastating blow" to districts, like Princeton, which had anticipated state aid when their school budgets were struck.

The bill is being referred to the Senate Revenue Finance and Appropriations Committee, of which Senator Stockman is vice-chairman. The chairman is Senator Lawrence S. Weiss.

Senator Stockman's office said on Tuesday that his staff is sending a letter "immediately" asking the committee to consider the measure. Although July 22 is scheduled as a session day for the Senate, Senator Stockman's office said it was not known whether S-1616 would be on the committee's agenda, or even whether the committee planned to meet that day.

The Assembly is not scheduled to meet. Senator Stockman's spokesperson said she did not know whether Assemblyman John Watson had prepared a similar bill for introduction in the Assembly. Both men, Democrats who represent Princeton, met last Thursday with a Princeton delegation.

Those who attended Thursday's meeting were school board president Ann McGoldrick; Borough resident and Mercer County Freeholder Barbara Sigmund; school board member Penelope (Penningroth) Baskerville; Charles Cornforth, former Borough Council member; William Cherry, Township Committee member; Hazel Rhodes, an aide in the Middle School; Sara Harris, retired teacher in the Princeton system; Mary Perone, Borough resident active for many years in Democratic politics; Senator Stockman; Assemblyman Watson and the legislative assistant of Assemblyman Gerard Naples.

Senator Stockman and Assemblymen Watson and Naples are all Democrats. So are Freeholder Sigmund and Mrs. McGoldrick. Mr. Cornforth and Mr. Cherry, who attended as private citizens, are Republicans.

Asked to comment on Senator Stockman's bill, Mrs. McGoldrick said "We must be grateful for anything we can get. But I still feel we are entitled to the full amount we were promised."

"I am pleased that something is in the works, but I hope it will be more than 50 percent of what we are entitled to."

Earlier, after Thursday's meeting, Mrs. McGoldrick said she was pleased that Princeton's representatives "were listening to us and hearing us. We made a good deal of progress in making them understand what this means in Princeton. I hadn't felt, before the meeting, that we had made much progress."

In a "Position Paper" presented to the representatives on Thursday,

McGoldrick Reports "Constructive Meeting"

"Since I have been publicly quoted saying harsh words about Princeton's legislative representatives," said school board president Ann McGoldrick this week, "I feel it is only fair to report on the constructive meeting a group of Princetonians had with Senator (Gerald) Stockman and Assemblyman (John) Watson.

"Senator Stockman and Assemblyman Watson were concerned, open to hearing new information about our schools and willing to listen. I believe we all left feeling better about the situation and confident that our legislators work to resolve this issue so that Princeton will not suffer such a significant loss in school aid.

"While I believe that it is important for all Princeton citizens to continue to express their concern to our legislators about this issue, I also think that it is important to give credit to Senator Stockman and Assemblyman Watson for being responsive to our concerns. I thank them for that, and look forward to an equitable resolution to this problem."

the school board said that "careful examination of school and census figures indicates that Princeton has a complex set of social needs which can be concealed, or masked, behind simplistic analyses of total income and real estate statistics."

The statement cited the following:

- 10 percent of the total student population is formally classified as "educationally handicapped."

- 11.5 percent of students do not speak English as a native language.

- 14 percent of all students, last year, received remedial attention in basic skills

"Educationally handicapped" means the chronically ill, those with impaired speech, orthopedic handicaps, neurological impairment, deafness and the like. "Remedial attention" refers to students who may not need full-time help, but must be

Nassau Del To Go

The Nassau Delicatessen, which has been on Palmer Square for at least 40 years — if not always at its present location — has been told by Collins Development that the Del's spot is wanted for a men's clothing store.

It is possible, according to the Del, that another location might be found somewhere else in the Square, but nobody seemed to know whether that is indeed the case. Collins' spokesmen were not available for comment.

given special support, perhaps in math or reading.

Mrs. McGoldrick refers to them as "the kids who aren't making it in the system," and who have a peculiar problem because Princeton has high standards — a high cut-off for remedial aid, for example — and many bright and competitive students.

Lack of money doesn't mean these students will be targeted as a good place to cut back, the board president emphasized. However, she pointed out that if the board decides to tighten the belt by making classes larger, children with special needs would get less attention from classroom teachers.

In a final shot at the legislators, the "Position Paper" points out that in 1980, Princeton residents sent more than $8 million to Trenton in income tax alone.

"Direct state aid for the coming year would represent less than 8.2 percent of the income-tax money sent by Princeton citizens to Trenton. This means we are receiving eight cents back on each dollar of income-tax.

"It may not be reasonable to expect that Princeton would receive a dollar of services for every dollar of taxation, but this imbalance is extreme."

TOPICS Of The Town

MORE HOUSING AHEAD
With New E-3 ZONE. The 500 acres of land around, and owned by, The Institute for Advanced Study may be the seed bed for 400 new housing units, probably clustered out of sight of Quaker Road in the more remote regions of the tract. (See map.)

On July 7, Township Committee, by a 4-0 vote (Richard Schoch absent) passed the ordinance creating a new E-3 zone for the Institute's land. Development there must now be clustered, before the ordinance, the Institute could have developed the property in a grid of one-acre plots. Conversations with Institute representatives in recent weeks have indicated that an eventual 400 housing units are a possibility.

The Planning Board, in a letter to Committee, says it expects that, because of the new ordinance "the Board's ability to preserve the Battlefield Park expansion area in open space, will be enhanced." Battlefield Park is next to the Institute's acreage.

Protecting the Battlefield Park expansion area from anything except park development, "continues to be an extremely important community value," the letter emphasizes. The cluster ordinance requires that a portion of the tract be in common open space, and a portion of that open space be "preserved open space." This "preserved" space is to include "lands of historic significance," as shown on the Township's Natural Resources Inventory map.

All of this can be taken care of during the site plan review process for any Institute developer, the board points out.

CUT DEPLORED

In State Aid to Schools. As a first order of business last Wednesday evening, Township Committee passed a resolution "deploring" the removal of $500,000 in minimal aid from the Princeton Regional Schools. Committee requested the legislature to "either restore the funds or find some more equitable manner of balancing the state budget."

Copies of the resolution, requested by school board president Anne McGoldrick, were sent to the governor and to representatives Gerard Naples and John Watson.

In other business, Committee accepted the low bid of $92,140 for the construction of Turning Basin Park at the foot of Alexander Road. The funds will be used for work on the area to the west of the Alexander Street as well as some clean-up along the edge of the east side of the road.

Plans call for a gravel parking area and a grassy area for overflow, picnic benches and two boat launching docks, one cantilevered over Stony Brook and the other over the D & R Canal. Committee agreed at an earlier meeting not to include drainage of the old turning basin on the east side of the park while the state is dredging the Canal in the hopes of persuading the state to dredge the basin while in the process.

The $92,140 bid was considerably lower than the Township engineer Walter Wheeler's estimate of $129,000 and reflects the state of the economy and the dearth of projects in a "middle range" of expense, Mr. Wheeler said.

During its work session, Committee agreed to change the zoning regulations in the Princeton Shopping Center to permit a drive-in bank. Princeton Bank had requested the change after being turned down twice by the Zoning Board for the necessary variance. Committee stipulated that only one drive-in bank will be permitted and no new access onto Harrison Street.

Committee also decided to follow the Borough's lead in adopting an ordinance that will limit the number of electronic and atari-type games in the Township. The intention is to avoid an "arcade" or shop devoted to nothing but electronic games.

Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer was asked to draw up an ordinance limiting such games to an accessory use in a business establishment and to one game per 500 square foot of space. However, a "grandfather clause" will be included to permit an existing establish-

NO STRINGS ATTACHED

Two MacArthur Winners. Two Princeton residents, both on the Princeton University faculty, are among the 19 chosen, nationwide, to be MacArthur Prize Fellows. All will receive unrestricted, no-strings awards that can go as high as $60,000 a year for five years. The exact amount given to the Princeton winners is not yet known.

The two are Edward Witten, 30-year-old member of the University's physics department whose specialty is particle physics, and Robert Darnton, 43, professor of history who specializes in popular French literature of the 18th century.

Former members of the Princeton faculty are also among the 19. One is Frank Wilczek, another physicist, who taught at Princeton from 1974 to 1981 and earned his doctorate at the University in 1974. Another is Randolph Whitfield Jr., who received his B.A. at Princeton in 1960. A doctor specializing in ophthalmology, he practices in rural Kenya.

Alfonso Ortiz, an American Indian anthropologist of the Tewa tribe who taught at Princeton from 1967 to 1970, is another winner.

Dr. Witten, who lives at 100 Einstein Drive, received his B.A. from Brandeis in 1971 and his doctorate from Princeton in 1976. He has been on the physics faculty since 1980.

Professor Darnton, who was a reporter on the Newark Star Ledger and the New York

Robert Darnton

Times, was a Rhodes Scholar and spent the years 1960-64 in Oxford. He majored in American history and literature at Harvard and has been on the history faculty at Princeton since 1968. He lives at 6 McCosh Circle.

The "popular" French literature in which he specializes, was written by 18th-century hacks whose underground writings were apparently best-sellers. Bearing titles like "Venus in the Cloister" or "The Nun in a Nightgown," they were anticlerical and seditious. They were also pornographic, with the idea of underscoring the connection between sexual and political corruption. "Hot pants in high places," is the way Professor Darnton once referred to the writings.

The John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation of Chicago gives its unrestricted awards as a rule to people — not necessarily academics — whose creativity lies in fields off the usual path.

STATE DRAWS LINES
And Creates Problems. The state road crew got busy with its paint and painting trucks earlier this summer and painted a lot of lines on Township streets and roads.

Which is all very well — the municipality is always glad to have the state bear the expense, and roads need lines to mark their sides, middles, intersections and no-passing zones. But when the state paints double stripes down the middle of a road for which a no-passing zone has not been formally created by municipal fiat, that is another matter.

For one thing, a canny motorist who receives a ticket for crossing one of these painted barriers to pass another vehicle can tell the policeman in just so many words that he has no right to give such a ticket on that street — and be right.

When the state paints street lines, it paints them to the last. Thus the Township is faced with whether to try to remove the lines by sand blasting them or trying to paint black tar over them or to create legislatively the no-passing zones that they indicate.

The roads in question are Stuart Road (which had never been painted before), Valley Road, Dodds Lane and Mt. Lucas Road. The Township Traffic Safety Committee, Dr. Henry J. Frank, chairman, has pretty much decided to review each one on a case by case basis.

According to Township Engineer Walter Wheeler, the normal procedure is for that committee or the Engineer's office to request of the Bureau of Traffic Safety of the Department of Transportation that a traffic survey be made of a road or street for which a stop sign or no-passing zone or other regulation is considered advisable.

After the survey is made, the state authorizes the municipality to carry out the designated procedure — the municipality does not have the authority to create a no-passing zone on its own. After the authority is given, the municipal government passes the appropriate enabling resolution, and the work is then carried out by the engineer's office.

"Technically what the state did in painting these lines is correct," Mr. Wheeler says; "administratively it is all wrong." Another street painting that is "all wrong" is Birch Avenue on which a line was painted down the middle that totally ignores the alternate side of the street parking regulations.

Thus there is left only six feet, Mr. Wheeler says, between the line of parked cars and that solid, theoretically impassible painted yellow line in the middle of the street. Six feet is not wide enough to permit passage of a car without its going over the line. This will have to be corrected, he says.

At its regular meeting this Wednesday, Township Committee will follow the proper administrative procedures in adopting

$16.6 MILLION BOND ISSUE

First of its kind for University. Princeton University has offered its first tax exempt bond issue and will use the proceeds for a number of renovation and capital projects, including a new $3.5 million computer.

The $16.6 million bond issue was sold at competitive bidding last Wednesday in Newark by the New Jersey Educational Facilities Authority, created by the New Jersey State Legislature for just such financing projects. A Smith Barney syndicate was the winning bidder. The bonds were promptly distributed but are available in the market place.

Since the N.J. Educational Facilities Authority's first bond issue was offered in 1971, some 34 college bond issues have been sold amounting to over $150 million. Earlier this year, the Institute for Advanced Study sold a bond issue through the authority of $8.7 million for construction purposes.

The Princeton bond offering was awarded the top rating of AAA by Moody's and Standard & Poor's rating services. The University intends to use the proceeds to purchase an IBM 3081 computer to replace its existing IBM 3033 in the Computer Center at a cost of $3,450,000.

Other projects, include repair of utility, steam, water, electric and sewer systems, energy conservation projects, roof repair, heating, plumbing, and wiring update, will total $8,750. An additional $1,300,000 will be spent on scientific research and instruction equipment, such as micro-processors, typewriters and calculators.

PAY WATER SURCHARGE?

Tenants Due Refund. If you are a tenant whose landlord passed along excess water charges to you during New Jersey's water emergency, you are entitled to reclaim the money, the New Jersey Tenants Organization says.

The state's Department of Environmental Protection has written to landlords known to have collected the surcharge, but there may be landlords the DEP doesn't know about. Also, the Tenants Organization says, no state agency has written to inform tenants.

Re-imbursements to landlords from water companies are expected to begin this summer. Landlords have three months after that to refund the surcharges to tenants. The New Jersey Tenants Organization is concerned that landlords who did not apply for permission to pass along the extra charges and kept the money, will not want to return the surcharge.

Additional information may be obtained from Phyllis Salowe-Kaye, 201-731-6327.

JEWISH CENTER PLANS

Closed on Saturday

The Baker's Basin motor vehicle inspection station is no longer open on Saturdays.

An announcement this week from the New Jersey Division of Motor Vehicles said that changes in inspection station hours have become necessary "due to the State's budgetary problems and shortage of personnel."

However, most inspection stations, including Baker's Basin, will open at 7 a.m., one hour earlier, and close at 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

wrap around three sides of the existing Center building, and a two-story addition on the rear of the house next door where the Center has classrooms.

For the Episcopalians, it was a 16-foot-square storage addition to a building at Trinity Church. Lawyer Christopher Tarr explained that the extension was necessary because the church had bought a new garden tractor too big to go through an existing door.

It was embarrassing, said EDRC member Robert Von Zumbusch, to find fault with the structure — which he did — because it had been designed by architect William H. Walker II who is an alternate on the EDRC. Mr. Walker was not present.

"It looks tacked on," Mr. Von Zumbusch protested. "It doesn't quite fit." And colleague Robert Englebrecht added, "It's a Colonial shed added to a modern building."

Both suggested that the facade should blend more with the roof-line.

It was more complicated, at 457 Nassau. Architect Abraham Goodman explained that the changes are not an expansion of the Center, but rather a way to improve the poor arrangement of the interior space.

The present Sanctuary, he told the EDRC, is an all-purpose room used for a social hall, meeting room and the like. A new Sanctuary will be strictly for religious purposes, and there will be a new small chapel, which the Center does not have at present.

The center driveway, which now separates the Center from the house, will be eliminated. Eight more classrooms will be in a two-story addition on the rear of the house. Mr. Goodman said that he hopes the fire code will allow the Center to remove an outside fire escape from the house. He would like an all-bronze-glass stair tower instead. The house itself will be unchanged, except for new paint.

Neighbors at the meeting expressed worries about the height and bulk of the addition to the school. They were also dubious about the bronze glass, but Mr. Goodman assured them that it actually had a softening effect not found in a masonry tower.

Martin Beck, of the EDRC, remarked that religious buildings are different from other kinds, and he suggested that the overall height was quite modest, considering the nature of the building.

Drainage was another problem. Center representatives told the EDRC they thought they had an easement from a Sturges Road property-owner, but learned at 10 p.m. Sunday that they did not. They quickly worked up a new drainage proposal, but Borough assistant engineer Martin Miller had not had time to look at it.

The EDRC, in the end, approved the plan, even though it is not yet known what kind of drainage will emerge. There will be a special meeting next Monday at 7:30 solely on drainage.

For neighbors concerned about sight and sound, the Center will screen the south with more landscaping — one tree for every 10 parking spaces — and will provide additional evergreen screening where neighbors believe it would be helpful.

CABANA DESTROYED

In Early Morning Fire. A general fire alarm shattered the stillness of the early morning hours Monday as Princeton's volunteer firefighters responded to a fire at the home of Donald Mackie, 566 Princeton-Kingston Road.

The fire, reported at 2:02 a.m., destroyed a cabana located next to the pool at the Mackie residence. The 20 feet by 20 feet wooden structure and its contents were described by police as being worth in excess of $40,000.

Naphtha in the Brook?

When Harry's Brook flows white, it's not snow in July. The brook flows through the grassy garden of Roger McDonough, 43 Bainbridge, and he noticed on Tuesday morning that it was flowing white — "oh, no, not again!" Because it had happened before.

There was the odor of something like naphtha, or old cleaning fluid, Mr. McDonough reports. He called the health officer and three sanitarians came out and took samples. Dennis Van Horn, one of the inspectors, then called the New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection.

He also called the state Department of Health for permission to send samples for chemical analysis, and he said he hoped to have such permission by late Tuesday. The state wants to know as much as possible about samples before accepting them for analysis, he explained.

Mr. McDonough said that Harry's Brook frequently is a current of odors. Although the smell is not always that of naphtha, Mr. McDonough said he has often suspected dry-cleaning plants, but Mr. Van Horn said the present milky substance might have been dumped by a private householder.

Pieces of equipment from all three fire companies responded to the blaze, following the arrival of Township Patrolman Virgil Angelini at the scene. The fire was under control in about a half hour.

Township police chief Frederick Porter said that guests had left the cabana approximately 45 minutes before the fire was reported. The fire was believed to have originated in a stack of wooden ashtrays set on a stove in the cabana.

DAD TO HOSPITAL

...Son to Jail. An early morning altercation between a father and son in the parking lot outside Township police headquarters resulted in the father being admitted to Princeton Medical Center and the son being charged with assault and being remanded to the Mercer County Correction Center.

Jeffrey Alan Smith, 25, of 38 Pardee Circle, was charged with the assault of his father, Roland W. Smith, of the same address, at about 1:30 a.m. Saturday morning. Police charged that the son assaulted and tried to choke the father, who was taken unconscious to the Medical Center. He was discharged later in the day.

The son was arrested the next day and ordered held on $5,000 bail by Township Judge Sydney S. Souter. The judge also sentenced him to six months in the correction center for violating his probation for a previous assault charge, registered in March, 1981.

The younger Smith will appear in court on the new assault charge at a later date.

MISCHIEF AT MYKONOS

And Choir College. Borough police reported that someone threw a rock through the window of the Mykonos fast food emporium on Witherspoon Street last week.

The window cost $225 to replace. A note, which police retained as possible evidence, was found taped to the front door and indicated that the rockthrower had had a disagreement with the proprietor.

At Westminster Choir College last week a 16-year-old boy was observed by two music students as he punctured two tires on a parked car. The students gave a description to Sergeant Thomas Procaccino, who relayed the information to Juvenile Officer William Clark.

Detective Clark recognized the description and arrested a suspect. The value of the tires was listed at $70 apiece.

At 1:30 a.m. last Wednesday a Spring Street resident reported to police that someone had broken the windshield of his car, which had been parked in the Maclean Street yard.

TRENTON MAN NABBED

For Deceptive Buying. Freddie Washington, 30, of Trenton was arrested last Wednesday by Borough Police, who charged him with trying to deceive the sales clerk at Competitive Sports clothing store on Nassau street. He was ordered to appear in Borough Court on August 4.

Police said the suspect first entered the store on July 6, took a jogging suit from the rack, removed the tags, and then presented it to the clerk, demanding to exchange it because it was the wrong size. The next day the man returned and attempted to

Former Bank Teller Here Arrested, Charged With Stealing $2,000 from Customer's Account

A 22-year-old former bank teller has been arrested and charged with forgery and misappropriation of bank funds in a case that began with a discrepancy of $2,000 in a customer's savings account at First National Bank of Princeton.

Marie Roessel of 63 Lillie Street, Princeton Junction, was arrested last Friday morning after an investigation that started in October under the direction of the bank's director of security, Walter Kretch, and continued since February with the involvement of Detective James Agins of the Borough Police and handwriting experts from the State Police.

Mrs. Roessel was released on bail of $500. The case has been forwarded to the Mercer County Prosecutor's office for presentation to the grand jury.

The discrepancy first came to light on October 28, when a bank customer attempted to transfer funds from her savings account to a checking account. A computer reading indicated that the passbook account of the customer, also a Princeton Junction woman, had $2,000 less than she thought it should.

In February Mr. Kretch

determined that a forgery was involved and contacted police.

Handwriting 'critical.' The police now charge that the transfer of funds actually occurred on July 17 of last year. According to police the teller withdrew the money from the customer's account using the code number of another teller.

Bank records showed that Mrs. Roessel left the bank's employment on August 24. Police said she was working at Scanticon on Route 1 at the time of her arrest. Handwriting samples, said Captain John Bellow, were "critical in the case."

POSSESSION CHARGED
Dangerous Weapons, Marijuana. Princeton Borough police officer Randy Sutton stopped a 19-year-old Princeton Junction man on Nassau Street near Palmer Square last Tuesday, July 6, expecting to ticket him for driving with an expired inspection sticker.

As he approached the car the officer observed the baseball bat covered with black tape, a set of nunchuck sticks, and a sawed-off axe handle with two large nuts and bolts attached with a chain. He also detected a small quantity of marijuana in the car.

Gregory H. Young, of Washington Road, Princeton Junction, was charged with possession of dangerous weapons and marijuana. He was released on his own recognizance and ordered to appear in Borough Court next Wednesday, July 21.

34 Young Actors Tackle Shakespeare Play As Part of Novel McCarter Summer Program

"...and there is a marvellous convenient place for our rehearsal. This green plot shall be our stage, this Hawthorn brake our tiring-house; and we will do it in action, as we will do it before the Duke."

Not rude mechanicals, like Quince's friends, but blue-jeaned kids, ages 10 to 18, met together to rehearse a play in the sleeping green shadows that watch over the British and American dead in Princeton Battlefield Park.

"A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be given four times, at 3 and 7:30 on Saturday and Sunday, July 24 and 25 by the 34 young actors in McCarter Theatre's first Shakespeare Summer. Admission is free, everyone welcome.

How could there be a better spot for Titania and Bottom,

News Of The THEATRES

Puck and Helena and all the rest...the white columns of the old Maxwell mansion, transplanted to the graveyard site in 1959, are Athens...the tall pines and under-shrubbery are clearly the home of sprites and elves...that merry wanderer of the night (and there will be three Pucks in this production) can vanish in the flicker of a lighted torch.

The young cast, having paid a tuition of $150 for four weeks, five days a week, is doing the whole production. They are writing press releases, selling ads for the program, assembling the props and simple costumes, writing their own music (who needs Mendelssohn?), doing their own choreography and, of course, acting. In addition, they study scan- sion under McCarter's artistic director, Nagle Jackson, who shows them how to speak iambic pentameter, where to emphasize, how to handle poetry, where and how to stress. With Penelope Reed, of the McCarter company, they study acting and voice, watching her own acting technique as "The Belle of Amherst" to see how she does it.

It began back in October, when Mr. Jackson mentioned the possibility of a Shakespeare summer for teens to Veronica Brady of McCarter's staff. A 1980 theatre graduate of McGill, she had been directing steadily since her sophomore year, had started a small theatre in Montreal which is still open, and spent a one-year internship at McCarter before graduation. She is, this year, a founder of NewStage.

She didn't let Jackson forget his comment, and the call went out this spring for teenagers who would like to learn about Shakespeare and act in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

"It was really interviews, more than auditions," Ms. Brady says. She ended with 20 girls and 14 men. Some of the girls wanted to play male roles, and do. The students come from as far as Summit, Freehold and Pennsylvania, and of course, many are from the Princeton area.

"I didn't cast until the third day and when the cast was announced, there was real excitement because I had double-cast — in fact, there are THREE Pucks."

Oberon and the four lovers are not double-cast.

"I didn't want just a bunch of attendants, with only a few leads getting all the good lines. This way, each company gets to perform twice. There is one main Puck, and two sidekicks, but they're 'on' all the time, acting out what Puck says. They share some of the lines with Puck, so all three have to memorize the lines.

"The sidekicks are 10- and 11-year-olds, and they'll be in raccoon make-up."

In and around the Battlefield woods, doing somersaults, swinging out of the trees, will be the Fairies. The woodland scenes will be enacted around the flat gravestone that marks the Revolutionary War graves. Opposite the circle of green, at the back of the Greek columns, will be the Athenian scenes.

The kids behave like pros. Depending on the schedule, they may have a wait of several hours or even a day, but they can watch what's going on, and they understand how it is in the theatre. Several are veterans of McCarter's "A Christmas Carol" and they know what Director Brady means about blocking — where you enter, how you make your body re-inforce what you say....

"The first week was just getting people to trust each other," she says. "There's a big difference between 10 years old and 18. You may be able to drive a car, and it will be years before the other guy can, but you're all fellow actors, in it together. It's not solely rehearsal, either. There is work on production, the acting and scansion classes.

"They have too much to do to be wise-apples about anything. I try to give them a break after 45 minutes or an hour, encourage them to fill in the time, to help with music or costumes. For example, if they have, maybe 20 minutes, and we're rehearsing in McCarter, they'll run over to the piano and start to work on music."

A listener at rehearsal will hear the director — "Try it again you guys. Don't move anywhere unless it makes sense with what you're saying."

Grins and an impatient squirm greet her announcement that, during a fight between a pair of mortals, the fairies will be on top of the mortals' shoulders, shadow-boxing with each other, and adding to the general chaos. All invisible, of course.

"It's the kind of experience the kids will never forget," Ms. Brady muses, "already they're asking about next summer. It's a great project. I hope it has a future, and I think it does — I think it will grow into a real Shakespeare summer camp for kids.

"But it will never be the same as this wonderful first year."

'APOCALYPSE NOW'

Single Feature. Francis Coppola's Vietnam epic, "Apocalypse Now" is too long to be shown with a partner film, so McCarter Theatre's Summer Cinema is showing it alone, with screenings scheduled for Kresge Auditorium (in the Frick Chemical Building on Washington Road, you will recall) starting this Wednesday and continuing through Sunday.

The film will be shown at 7 and 9:30 Wednesday, Thursday and Sunday and 7:30 and 10 Friday and Saturday.

Inspired by Joseph Conrad's "Heart of Darkness," the Coppola film chronicles the delicate mission of an Army captain (Martin Sheen) sent to "terminate, with extreme prejudice," a renegade Green Beret, played by Marlon Brando, who has taken a private army of natives into Cambodia where he has set up his own kingdom.

As the captain travels upriver on a patrol boat, the war unfolds before him, in one episode after another of waste and pain. The director evokes what one critic calls "the frightening, confusing and wrenching tragedy that was the war in Vietnam — the only war this nation has ever lost."

NEXT NEWSTAGE

Brecht-Weill. A Brecht-Weill musical you may never have heard of, will be the second NewStage offering at Murray Theatre. Opening night is July 22, and the production will run through August 1.

"Happy End" was written after the wildly successful Brecht-Weill collaboration, "Three Penny Opera." But opening night of "Happy End" was such an unhappy end — in fact, an "unqualified disaster," according to NewStage's research — that neither Brecht nor Weill would have anything to do with the play for years, and refused to put their names to the script.

But there is a happy ending. Michael Feingold made a new translation, first produced at Yale Repertory and now about to be produced in Princeton. Weill's music is described as "some of his most impressive and striking" and NewStage is full of optimism.

Tom Cott is directing, and Jeff Kanfield is in charge of music. Bob Stern, NewStage's resident designer, has done the set.

"Happy End," Mr. Cott says, is a European's view of America in its Golden Age of

The play must be playable in less than one hour, and the winner will be produced by Princeton Community Players as part of the 1982-83 season. Princeton's turn will come next Thursday, July 22, when the tents go up in the Princeton Shopping Center. Two performances have been booked — one at 5:30 p.m. and the other at 8.

There are no reserved seats, and the midway will open an hour before show-time. Ad-

Founder and Current Director, Audrey Estey, to Retire in Fall

Judith Leviton, who has been associate director of The Princeton Ballet Society since 1980, has been named Director of the Society, succeeding Audrey Estey, the Society's founder, who will retire September 1.

Donald B. Edwards, president of the Society's board of trustees, said that Mrs. Estey will continue to serve as artistic advisor to the organization.

"I am delighted to leave the Society in Judy's caring and capable hands," Mrs. Estey said. "I feel as though I am sending my 'child' off to college ... to new and challenging adventures."

A native of Trenton, Ms. Leviton received her early training from her great-aunt, Florence Camera, and later studied with Pereyaslavets, Danielian and William Morelli. She performed with the Ballet Theatre, the Contemporary Chamber Ensemble, the New York City Opera and the Metropolitan Opera Ballet, and became a member of The Princeton Ballet faculty in 1967.

In 1972, she was appointed ballet mistress of The Princeton Regional Ballet. In 1980, she was named associate director of The Princeton Ballet Society, in charge of administering the School of Ballet and the regional company, Princeton Ballet II.

The Ballet Society also announced the resignation of Jane Gifford as associate director. She will continue to teach and will serve as consultant to the professional ballet company.

Mr. Edwards, in a letter to those associated with the Society, said the board felt "deep regret" at Ms. Gifford's decision to leave the associate director's post. "She has served The Princeton Ballet since 1978 with vision and incredible

TO DIRECT PRINCETON BALLET: Judith Leviton will succeed founder Audrey Estey as director of The Princeton Ballet Society. It was announced this week. Mrs. Estey's retirement will become effective September 1. She founded the Society in 1954 and will continue as artistic adviser. The Society also comprises the School of Ballet and the 19-year-old Princeton Ballet Company.

dedication," Mr. Edwards said.

He also announced that Dermot Burke has been promoted to assistant director-ballet master, with responsibility for training the professional company.

Mrs. Estey, whom the New York Times once called "New Jersey's First Lady of dance," had a successful performing career in California before coming to New Jersey. She began teaching shortly after her marriage to Mr. Estey, an instructor in English at The Lawrenceville School, and her classes became so popular that she had to move into larger quarters — the garage of physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer.

The school was incorporated in 1953, and a performing company founded in 1963. The Princeton Ballet Company, which has both professional and non-professional components, has been designated one of the seven "major" companies in the country by the National Association for Regional Ballet.

Mrs. Estey serves on the board of trustees of the New Jersey State School for the Arts. Mr. Edwards said Ballet Society trustees are planning "a suitable occasion" in the fall to honor her.

The Great American Circus is proud of its tents, pointing out in an "Exclusive Press Release" that most Americans now think of a circus as something you see in an air-conditioned arena, as though it were a basketball game. #### NEW STAFF ANNOUNCED

At McCarter. Two new staff members at McCarter Theatre were announced this week in advance of their August arrival. They are John Herochik, who will be production manager, and Brenton H. Carey, who will be in charge of development. Nagle Jackson, McCarter's Artistic Director, and Alison Harris, the theatre's Managing Director will continue to head the staff.

Mr. Herochik was co-founder of the George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick, and is currently its managing director. He will direct all of McCarter's backstage activities, supervising a full-time seasonal production staff of more than 20.

His responsibilities will extend beyond the five-play drama series to the annual productions of "A Christmas Carol," "The Nutcracker," and the P.J. & B. musical, and all special events including dance, music, pop concerts on the Princeton University campus, and the film series.

Mr. Carey has been director of development of the Palm Beach Festival in West Palm Beach, Florida, since 1979. At McCarter, he will co-ordinate all fund-raising activities, including those of McCarter Associates, benefits, and the solicitation of corporate, foundation and government grants.

During the 1981-82 season, McCarter raised almost $650,000 in contributed income — apart from benefits — and the theatre hopes to raise almost $750,000 in the season to come. Mr. Carey will work with Pamela V. Sherin, the associate director of development, and Joan Keyes Roberge, membership coordinator.

Other key members of the staff for '82-'83 will be William W. Lockwood Jr., special programming director; Robert Lanchester, associate artistic director; Laurence Capo, operations manager; Linda S. Kinsey, communications director and Brian Thomas, business manager.

ABOUT POLLUTION...

Switzgable Film. "In Our Water," the documentary made by Princeton filmmaker Meg Switzgable, will be shown this Sunday at 1 and 3 p.m. in the auditorium of the State Museum in Trenton. The 3 p.m. showing will be followed by public discussion. Admission to both showings is free.

"In Our Water" focuses on the pollution potential of the nation's estimated 50,000 hazardous waste dumps. Since its world premiere in Princeton last year, the documentary has received the Grierson Award at the 1982 American Educational Film Festival as the year's "best documentary by an independent filmmaker," and has been referred to as "a stirring call to action."

'Oklahoma!' Auditions
Male dancers and male singers are in special demand for the Trenton Civic Opera Company's November 14 production of the musical, "Oklahoma!" Dancers and singers who are interested are invited to the War Memorial Auditorium in Trenton next Monday, July 19 at 6 p.m. Re-auditions will be held the same evening. Those who cannot audition at this time are asked to call 883-1775 for an appointment.

TWO CONCERTS PLANNED
To End Albemarle Session. Albemarle, the music-athletic camp of the American Boychoir School, will present a recital Friday at 7 at the Boychoir School on Lambert Road. The concert is open to the public and will include an instrumental recital and a demonstration of the Orff-Schulwerk classes.

The instrumental recital will consist of soloists, small ensembles and the Albemarle Instrumental Ensemble conducted by Barbara Barstow, instrumental director at Albemarle and a violist with area music groups. Nancy Thorne, past president of the Central New Jersey Chapter of The American Orff-Schulwerk Association and a 1981 recipient of the New Jersey Music Educators Master Teacher of Music award, will lead the demonstration. Orff-Schulwerk is a music making method in which children are introduced to music with song, speech, body movement and rhythm instruments.

The closing choral concert for Albemarle's first session will be held on Saturday morning at 11. The Albemarle Chorus conducted by Anton Armstrong will be featured as will the Junior Chorus led by Gloria Hanson, a recent graduate of Westminster Choir College. The public is invited and refreshments will be served.

Albemarle currently has the largest enrollment since it expanded its program in 1978 to include girls. The first two-week session will conclude on Saturday, and a second session will begin Sunday, also with a capacity enrollment and a waiting list. Mr. Armstrong, who has been a staff member for 12 years and director for the past three years, was recently appointed conductor of the 110-voice Grand Rapids, Mich., Symphonic Choir.

The production is by Artists Showcase Theatre, Trenton.

GUITARIST FEATURED

In Summer Sounds Concert. The second Summer Sounds concert to be held this Thursday night at 7:30 in Community Park North, will feature Stanley Jordan. The guitarist, who has played in the Princeton area for the last four years, will be joined by Fred Peiter on flute and sax, Michael Quables on drums and Bernard Murphy on bass for an evening of improvisational jazz, rock and funk.

Mr. Jordan, who has been a guest soloist with Benny Carter and Dizzy Gillespie, expects to play a series of concerts at the World's Fair in Knoxville, Tenn. followed by an extensive tour of Europe.

The free concerts, sponsored by the Arts Council of Princeton and the Princeton Recreation Department, are made possible through a grant from the Princeton Youth Fund.

Other shows will include the T.V. Hepcats playing folk, country blues and ragtime on July 22, the Spiritual Energy Collective, a new wave jazz band on July 29, and the Sourland Mountain String Band playing bluegrass on August 5. Raindates are for the following evening.

Community Park North is located off the Mountain Avenue exit of the Bayard Lane section of Route 206.

SHAW TO CONDUCT

At Westminster. Two contrasting requiems by French composers will be sung under the baton of Robert Shaw on Monday, August 2, at 8 in the Princeton University Chapel.

A Westminster Choir of 200 voices will sing both the Gabriel Faure and the Maurice Durufle requiems accompanied by a small chamber orchestra. Susan Robinson, soprano, and Daniel Pratt, baritone, will be the soloists.

The noted choral conductor, Robert Shaw, has been coming to Princeton for two weeks each summer since 1972 to conduct a choral workshop at Westminster Choir College. Professional musicians, many of whom are Westminster graduates, come to the workshop for two weeks of study, rehearsals and performance. This year Joseph Flummerfelt, director of choral activities at Westminster Choir College, will share in the preparation of the chorus for performance.

Tickets will be available at the door or in advance by calling the Westminster Summer Session at 924-7416. Suggested donation for tickets is: $6 for the up-front reserved section; $3 for general admission.

WEEK AT WESTMINSTER
Almost Nightly Offerings.
The fifth week of Summer

Session at Westminster Choir College will include recitals and concerts almost nightly which are open to the public without charge.

This week's fare will include a voice recital on Sunday, at 8 by Jan Gensemer, soprano, accompanied by Susan Miller at the piano. On Monday at 8, Erik Routley will hold a Hymn Sing in Bristol Chapel. Alice Parker will lead a Hymn Sing on Wednesday, July 21, at 7.

On Tuesday, July 20, at 7, Sharon Gorman will present a harpsichord recital, followed by a Summer Oratorio Sing of the Brahms Requiem at 8 in the chapel. The Requiem will be conducted by Jon Bailey, associate professor of choral music, conductor of the Concert Choir and director of the Institute of Sacred Music at Yale University.

Rummage Sale Will Kick Off Major Fund Drive For Care of Women Alcoholics at Halfway House

Crawford House, the non-profit halfway house for recovering women alcoholics, will kick off a major fund raising drive August 29 with a giant outdoor rummage sale.

The sale, co-sponsored by the Princeton Elks Club, Lodge 2129, is scheduled from 9 to 4 at the Elks Club on Route 518 and the Great Road in Montgomery Township. Clothes, jewelry, furniture, hooks, toys, produce at a farmer's market, baked goods and refreshments will be among the sale items.

Crawford House is among the few halfway houses in New Jersey offering a therapeutic program for women alcoholics without charging admission fees. According to executive director Betty Koehler, funds from the drive are needed to expand the program and the space at the Montgomery Township facility.

More than 100 women have completed the recovery program at Crawford House since it opened in 1979. The program requires economic self-sufficiency and an appropriate place to live before graduation.

Space Needs. Among Crawford House's immediate needs are modernized offices for counseling. Presently, residents meet with counselors in temporary offices on the screened porch of the renovated farmhouse, which dates to 1710. Other needs include a group meeting room, a film library, and funds for recreational activities.

Crawford House was named after the late Edward

Crawford, an alcoholism counselor at Rutgers Community Mental Health Center, who co-founded the facility with Mrs. Koehler. There were no halfway houses for recovering women alcoholics in 1977 when the two began raising funds for the project.

There were numerous obstacles, the most difficult beginning shortly after the farmhouse was purchased on 11 acres near Skillman. The Montgomery Township Zoning Board denied the legal variance needed to operate, a decision overturned by township Mayor Grey Jones. A land developer then filed suit against the mayor and Crawford House, claiming the mayor had acted illegally. The dispute was resolved two years later when a Superior Court judge in Somerset County ruled in favor of Crawford House.

"We had to fight a lot of prejudice to establish a halfway house just for women alcoholics," said Mrs. Koehler. "Today, Crawford House has arrived as a viable entity in the community."

Fourteen Residents. The home accommodates 14 women, who share rooms and perform most of the household duties. Residents have ranged in age from 15 to 64, with an average stay of three and a half to four months. Their program includes individual, group and family counseling, and other approved alcohol recovery treatment.

The average cost per resident is $30 per day, with the majority of the cost funded by federal and state government sources. From 1979 through 1981, the annual budget for Crawford House was $145,000, with $131,000 from government sources and the remainder from private grants and donations. This year, the budget is $155,000. However, most of the increase must be raised privately since the government share remains unchanged at $131,000.

Any woman who is a resident of New Jersey may apply for admission to Crawford House. She must have completed an acceptable program of detoxification and rehabilitation before her application is considered further. Preference is given to women from Mercer, Middlesex and Somerset Counties.

Crawford House has always operated at full capacity and receives between three and four referrals daily, causing a waiting list for admission. "The need exists and we are helping to fill it," Mrs. Koehler said. "However, our waiting list is so long that 20 more facilities like Crawford House are needed."

Volunteers Needed. Volunteers are needed to assist the six paid staff members at Crawford House. For more information about the fund drive or volunteering, call Mrs. Koehler at (201) 874-5153.

Donations of items for the garage sale also are needed. For more information about the sale, call Jeanne Armiger at 924-6975; Mary Elise Cook at 924-0616; or Barbara Rozand at 921-8098.

the university campus, where a student had her 10-speed model, worth $150, chained in place. The thief had cut cleanly through the chain with some type of bolt cutter.

Three empty beer barrels and a beer keg tap were stolen from behind a Cleveland Lane residence sometime last Thursday night or Friday morning. The kegs were worth $10 apiece to anyone who has the means to refill them. The tap is valued at $50.

Someone entered the Charter Club on Prospect Avenue last week and made off with an amplifier, tuner, and cassette tape deck valued at more than $1,000. The thief or thieves also got another bicycle, a 10-speed valued at $150.

Police detected no sign of forced entry at the club but did not find that particularly surprising. Both the front and rear doors of the building were left unlocked.

Moped to Wallets. A $650 moped cabled and locked to a garage door frame on Constitution Drive was stolen sometime Saturday. The owner reported that the cables were cut clean.

Wallets, all containing small amounts of cash and the usual driver's licenses and credit cards were stolen from the following locations: Community Park Pool, where a Meadowbrook Drive man had left his in a gym bag which he kept at the side of the pool; from a Deveraux Road residence, where a woman left hers in a purse on the kitchen table; some of the contents were found the next day on Sycamore Street by a neighbor whose own wallet was stolen from his house; and from the social services office at the Princeton Medical Center, where two employees reported losing theirs while they were away from their desks for a half-hour period last Friday.

PRICE LOWERED
For Kopplner Fete. The sponsors of the July 30 dinner and dance to honor retiring Sgt. Michael C. Kopplner of the Township police have discovered that the affair will cost less than they had anticipated. Ticket prices, which include dinner at the Princeton Elks Lodge, an open bar, and gift, have been lowered from $27 to $24 per person. For information call 921-2100.

The past couple of years has seen an alarming increase in the populations of a particularly destructive insect, the Woolly Aphid. Concerned homeowners are finding cottony white puffs on their prized Hemlocks and other fir trees as well. This dreadful little creature has killed billions of feet of the finest fir timber on our continent since its introduction into the U.S. from Asia around the turn of the century.

The populations of the insect in the U.S. consist entirely of females, purplish-black in color, but which secrete ribbons of white wax which cover its tiny body, thus giving its woolly white appearance. The adult fixes herself to the host plant by means of her long, sucking mouthpart (several times longer than her body), and remains in that spot for life. When eggs hatch, the crawling stage is so small that it can be windblown for great distances, thereby spreading destruction.

The damage done to the tree is most noticeable at the ends of twigs, often, swelling appears, caused by a substance injected into the twig by the insect. When the infestation is severe, the twigs appear to be covered by the white wool of the aphids. New growth virtually ceases.

The best and most effective time to treat for the Woolly Aphid is early fall, using a combination of Sevin, Diazinon, and a spreader-slicker material to keep the chemical on the needle surface.

As always, trees which have suffered any heavy insect infestation should be deep-rooted as soon as possible to counteract the destruction.

teachers from all over the U.S. are spending a month in Princeton at the Dreyfus Institute preparing curriculum modules for use in general high school chemistry courses.

CYCLISTS INVOLVED
In Separate Accidents. Riders of bicycles, mopeds, and motorcycles all were involved in collisions with automobiles within the past week, but all apparently escaped serious injury.

Twelve-year-old Francis J. Heaney of 60 Marion Road suffered bruises of the knee and leg when his bicycle collided with a car driven by Burton M. Baum, 47, of 195 Clover Lane last Wednesday afternoon. Police said the car was traveling south on Snowden Lane when the bicyclist came through the intersection on Hamilton Avenue without observing the stop sign. No summons was issued.

Sean York, 11, of 214 Western Way, was treated and released from the Medical Center last Wednesday when his bicycle struck a car driven by Petrina M. Lowrance of 375 Snowden Lane. Police said the car was traveling east on Hamilton when the cyclist, who said he was late for baseball practice, failed to stop for the stop sign on Chestnut Street. The bicyclist rolled over the hood of the car.

The moped, driven by Julie E. Anderson, 17, of 6 Fieldston Road, was going north on Alexander Street when it struck a delivery truck operated by Frank J. Fay, 19, of Trenton, who was pulling into traffic after being parked.

The rider of the moped was thrown to the ground and taken by ambulance to the Medical Center, where she was treated for bruises on her left leg and head. The driver of the delivery truck was issued a summons for failing to yield to traffic.

Driver Charged. Two motorcycle riders were treated and released from the Medical Center early last week after they struck a car at the corner of Witherspoon and Wiggins streets. Mario A. Bruno, 21 of 17 Leigh Avenue, and Brian R. Johns of Hightstown escaped serious injuries, according to police reports.

The driver of the car, Kenneth Pawson, 25, of Edgewater, was charged with driving while intoxicated.

CAR PLUNGES 14 FEET
No Serious Injury. A harrowing accident on Quaker Bridge Road over the Fourth of July weekend apparently resulted in no serious injuries, according to Township police reports.

Nelson W. Rivers, 22, of Trenton was driving south on Quaker Bridge Road shortly after noon on July 3 when he came upon a car in the middle of the roadway, between Mercer and Province Line roads. Police said the driver of that car, Bessie S. Micromanolis of Langhorne was attempting to make a U-turn.

In attempting to avoid the other car, Mr. Rivers swerved off the road, struck a tree eight feet from the edge of the shoulder, became airborne, and went over a 14-foot embankment and into Stoney Brook. Mr. Rivers was reported to complain of a pain in his neck but nothing more serious than that.

2 PEDESTRIANS CHARGED
In Traffic Accidents. Two pedestrians escaped serious injuries, but received summonses from the police, in traffic accidents last week in the Borough.

Last Tuesday, July 6, Barbara K. Hummel, 22, of 60 Hodge Road was jogging south on Bayard Lane near Boudinot Street when she stepped off the curb and was struck by a car driven by Marleen M. Agritelly, 31, of 2781 Princeton Pike in Lawrenceville. The jogger was treated for a bruised knee and a bump on the head at Princeton Medical Center and released. Police also issued her a ticket.

One day later Martha L. McNamara, 18, of East Windsor, attempted to cross Nassau Street near Witherspoon. Police said she ran directly into the path of a car driven by Jack Roemer, 48, of 210 Shadybrook Lane. The pedestrian was ticketed by police and treated and released from the Medical Center.

New Police Chief

Township Committee. He will serve as acting chief beginning next Wednesday and become chief on October 27.

Lt. Pinelli was one of three Township police officers vying for the job of Chief Porter, who announced his decision to retire from the force after 30 years of service. The other candidates were Lt. Jack Petrone and Det. Norman Servis. In announcing the selection of Lt. Pinelli, Township Mayor Winthrop Pike noted that the choice had not been easy: all three candidates were native Princetonians and all attended schools here. To help Committee make up its mind each candidate was asked to submit a written statement on why he wanted to be chief and what changes, if any, he proposed for the Department.

"I certainly feel honored to be appointed," said the lieutenant the morning after the announcement. "I have some ideas that I would like to implement at a later date. It will all be done with the cooperation of the other ranking officers." The new chief praised his competitors for the job, calling them "highly qualified," and he vowed to carry on "the fine tradition established by Chief Porter."

The outgoing chief, in turn, cited Lt. Pinelli. "I've watched him come up through the ranks. He has excelled in all phases of police work. He's truly a professional. He has excellent rapport, he knows the town and its needs, and I commend Committee for its choice. He will carry well the responsive tradition of the personnel in this department."

Lt. Pinelli, 44, admitted that he had always aspired to be chief. "That's the ultimate goal in police work," he said. "Every police officer has that in the back of his mind."

One of five children of a lab technician at the Forrestal Center, Lt. Pinelli graduated from Princeton High School in 1956. His father died at the age of 47; his mother and two sisters still live in Princeton. Another sister and brother live in Skillman, as does the lieutenant and his family -- he is married to the former Luemma King of Plainsboro and they have three children, Peter, 18, who is entering Norwich University in Vermont and aspires to be an Air Force pilot, Janice 13, and Donna, 10.

Communications Man. Lt. Pinelli served in the New Jersey National Guard prior to his appointment to the Township Police on December 16, 1961. In October, 1968, he was assigned as acting juvenile officer. Within months he was promoted to detective and placed in charge of the newly formed Juvenile Bureau.

In 1971 he was made a sergeant and continued to oversee the Juvenile Bureau until 1978, when he was promoted to rank of lieutenant in the uniform division and assigned as operations line officer.

In that capacity Lt. Pinelli oversaw changes in the Township Police's communications system and became the resident expert in the uses of the computer terminal that hooks Township Police in with the other police departments in the state and with the NCIC.

One of the first actions as chief will be moving ahead with Chief Porter's proposal to hire four civilian dispatchers to handle the routine desk duties at police headquarters. The civilians will be hired at a time when the department is losing three officers to retirement: Chief Porter, Sgt. Anthony Nini, and Sgt. Michael Kopliner.

More Computerization. The four civilians will enable four uniformed officers to go out on patrol. Because of the retirements, the net result will be one more policeman on the road. Another change at Township Police is likely to be the computerization of even more police records and information. The Township has purchased a sizeable computer with the capacity for including data from the Police Department. "Computerization is going to happen," said Lt. Pinelli. "The only question is when. I would guess within the next couple of years."

Chief Porter, who will be 56 next month, is retiring from the police force and is looking forward to a few months of rest and relaxation, but he does not plan to stop working. His plans for the future, which may include formation of a private security consulting company, and his reflections on 30 years with the Township, will be reported in next week's TOWN TOPICS.

For Princeton Air Link. Weld Cox of Rocky Hill, the head of a Princeton-based consulting firm who used to fly regularly on commuter flights from Princeton airport, is attempting to organize commuters to demand a return of service at the airport, located on Route 206 in Montgomery Township.

economically. Mayor Cawley has observed that the Borough might receive more money in lieu of taxes with 101 units than with the original 89

In his plans, Mr. Ford has designed a two-story structure, "crunched into the hill." Since Elm Road is a steep incline at this point — the entrance to the sewer field is off Wilson Road — the two-story building will look like only one story, when viewed from uphill, Mr. Ford says.

Because of the slope, tenants who live on the second floor will be able to walk in from ground level. Those on the first floor will also enter from that level, the architect said. Mr. Ford has designed the building around a court, and he says with a smile, "You could do your laps around the corridors on rainy days."

Also, he says, because the building is on a smaller, more residential scale than the one proposed for the center of town, it can have a residential look, with a traditional pitched roof and shingles. Because it is only two stories, it can be built of traditional materials, as well, "more familiar to the elderly tenants," he adds.

Mayor Cawley pledges transportation. Borough Council is willing to coordinate transportation, he told reporters, and might even donate part of the payment-in-lieu-of-taxes (known as PILOT) to some transportation arrangement.

The mayor's draft for the Planning Board said the sewer field is a good site. Its pleasant, quiet surroundings were a reasonable trade-off with its lack of shopping facilities and distance from town, the mayor wrote.

He pointed out to possible objectors, that most elderly people are quiet and orderly, and not traffic-producers.

"I think it would be an addition to the neighborhood," the mayor told his press conference Monday, "and certainly not a detriment. Just suppose the Borough began to use that area seriously for what it was originally intended for!"

The area is now a dumping place for leaves and brush — "storage area" is the Borough's euphemism.

So far, no financial agreement has been reached between the Borough and PCH for use of the land. If the previous pattern is followed, PCH would lease from the Borough and pay the municipality the PILOT yearly. PILOT is calculated on the basis of market rents, minus utility costs.

Unlike the rejected project, this one would be financially attractive to the Borough because money would not have to be used for a companion garage.

Commenting on HUD's uninformed rejection, Mayor Cawley declared: "We're going ahead as if things aren't any worse than we thought they'd be. Everyone knew it was chancy."

business. Last week the commuter airline's president, David A. Van Dyke, who also owns the airport, announced that the 50-acre facility was for sale. He doubted that anyone would buy the property to maintain it as an airfield.

Mr. Coxie issued an open letter to his fellow Princeton Airport commuters, which read in part:

"As a regular air commuter, I was appalled by the announcement that Princeton Airways was selling its 'slots' at Newark, Boston, and Washington and going out of business. This strikes me as a gross miscarriage of the free enterprise system.

"The slots in the Federal air Traffic System that Princeton Airways sold were created by the U.S. Government at public expense (to deal with the controllers' strike). Only by a highly controversial order of Secretary of Transportation Drew Lewis did these slots become the personal property of Princeton Airways. This outrageous give-away of what should be a public franchise has allowed our slots to be sold to airlines that have no intention of serving Princeton."

"Yell Like Hell." "If this action is permitted to rest here, the chances of our community being able to attract new commuter air service are slim. No new carrier is likely to be able to out-bid the jet airlines to restore our service.

"I am told that... if we yell loudly enough, soon enough, we have a chance of getting some replacement slots allocated to Princeton. And if we succeed, there is every reason I believe a new, responsible commuter airline can be attracted to restore our service. I need to know who is prepared to help organize a citizen's group to yell like hell until we get our slots back. Please write:

Pops Concert Pure Delight.

To the Editor of Town Topics: It was indeed a perfect evening - the splendid music, the sensational fireworks, the exuberant audience, the sunny skies and then the starry night. Mother Nature outdid herself for this year's spectacular Princeton Pops Concert. It could not have been better.

The Princeton Area Chapter of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra League and the Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton Area have so many people to thank. We are so grateful to all the area banks and savings and loan associations, and the local stores for serving as ticket outlets.

Special thanks go to our newspapers who provided tireless and wonderful coverage of the upcoming event. We appreciate the efficiency of Princeton University for handling the unprecedented crowd who came to enjoy. Our thanks go to WHWH and WPRB for their support and detailed information. The Princeton Police Department deserves a round of applause for answering all those last minute calls from last minute Pops goers.

The pure delight on the faces of the crowd said it all. May July 4, 1983 be as special as this year.

Restore School Aid.

To the Editor of Town Topics: Putting aside the more compelling question of why the Legislature found it necessary to chop $18,000,000 from the state minimum aid program to school districts at all this year, let us examine the results of the procedure devised to effect this cut. The Princeton Regional School District is one of 85 school districts in the State to lose all of its minimum aid. In fact, Princeton will lose well over a half million crucial dollars.

Why wasn't the $18,000,000 cut spread equitably over all of New Jersey's 254 state minimum aid districts? Princeton's representatives on the Joint Appropriations Committee, Senator Stockman and Assemblyman Watson, supported the formula responsible for the total elimination of the much needed minimum aid funds to suffer. Princeton. In addition, they along with Princeton's representative, Assemblyman Naples, voted for it in the Senate and Assembly respectively.

All too many blithely assume that Princeton is somehow immune from the economic problems afflicting the rest of the State. But Senator Stockman and Assemblymen Watson and Naples, who claim to represent us, should know better. At the very least, they should be urged to lead the effort to restore an equitable portion of state minimum aid to the Princeton Regional School District forthwith.

Hurrah for the Fourth!

To the Editor of Town Topics: I am certain that everyone who was privileged to attend the concert and fireworks at the Princeton University Fields the night of July Fourth came away with a wonderful feeling about the whole affair.

Princeton had a great fireworks tradition for a number of years in Palmer Stadium, but 1976 was the last of them - and accomplished only by the valiant efforts of several organizations. How grateful we should be to the Chamber of Commerce of the Princeton Area, to the Princeton Area Chapter of the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra League, to Princeton University and to the weather for a superb evening!

It typified all that is so special about our Princeton area.

Consolidation Elsewhere:

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Lest we forget the intense local public debate that took place three years ago, the following news article tucked in one of the back pages of a recent issue of the New York Times may remind us that issues in this community are not singular to Princeton.

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., July 4 (AP) -- The Kellogg Company has promised to keep its headquarters here if the City of Battle Creek and neighboring Battle Creek Township merge.

In May the cereal maker Princeton's representatives had threatened to move its offices and 700 employees elsewhere unless the two local man and Assemblyman governments consolidated. Without such action, the company warned, economic development in the area would suffer. Kellogg's chairman, William E. LaMothe, gave the company's promise to members of a pro-merger committee last week and confirmed it in a letter to the group later. "Let me assure you," he wrote, "that if the merger takes place in the time frame we are working within, the Kellogg Company will keep its corporate headquarters in Battle Creek."

FRANK STELLA: From his "Shards" series, on view at the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art, 8 Chambers Street, this is "IVE", a mixed-media print.

MIXED MEDIA

At Gallery of Fine Art, "Shards," a collection of works in mixed media, will open this Thursday at The Princeton Gallery of Fine Art, 8 Chambers Street, continuing through mid-August. The gallery is open from 10 to 5 Tuesdays through Fridays, and 11 to 5 on Saturdays.

Frank Stella, the artist, has executed nine prints for the series, using vivid colors and expressionistic technique in a departure from his usual symmetrical works. Each print measures 40 by 45 and one-half inches, and has from 28 to 43 colors from lithographic plates and screens that have been hand-drawn by the artist.

FIBER, WATERCOLOR

In Two Workshops. Lisa Martin, artist-in-residence at Peters Valley Craft Center, will give a two-day workshop (July 21-22) in fiber construction under the auspices of the Princeton Art Association.

On Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 27-29, Nicholas Reale will conduct a workshop in watercolor. Both are open to the public and PAA membership is not required.

The fiber construction classes will give students a basic vocabulary in weaving, twining, plaiting, coiling, knotting and netting. No experience is necessary.

Mr. Reale will teach color and design, covering wet-on-wet techniques and the use of gouache, acrylic and other aqueous media. Students should bring their own watercolors and acrylics, brushes and smooth watercolor papers.

SCENES OF HOME

Central New Jersey Oils. David Bush, Dutch Neck artist, will display his oils of Central New Jersey scenes this Saturday from noon to four in the Nelson House, Washington Crossing State Park. Nelson House is on River Road, Titusville.

Mr. Bush will be offering several of his paintings for sale. The artist is a graduate in Fine Arts from the University of Kansas.

TO RESTORE ART

With Federal Grant. The Rutgers Art Gallery will use a $33,000 Federal grant from the Institute of Museum Services to restore and conserve the university's permanent art collection for display in a new $3 million addition to the gallery. It is the second such grant received in the last two years.

Approximately 20 paintings, prints and drawings by American, English and French artists are being restored, including two paintings by Benjamin West ("Venus Lamenting Adonis" and "Rinaldo and Armida"), an oil by Stuart Davis (Gloucester Landscape: 1918") and a portrait by Micah Williams, an itinerant artist who was active in New Jersey between 1815 and 1830.

Rutgers' new wing, which will quadruple gallery space, is scheduled for an official opening in February.

ART

In Princeton

A graduate of Princeton in 1958, Stella had begun the study of art at Andover. In Princeton, he attended William Seitz' open painting studio, and after graduation joined the Leo Castelli Gallery in New York. He is regarded by many critics as one of the most important American artists of the last 20 years.

The Princeton Gallery of Fine Art will be closed the last two weeks in August, and will re-open in September with a show of Milton Avery oils, gouaches, drawings and prints. The show will coincide with a large Avery retrospective at the Whitney Museum, opening September 15.

TO DISPLAY CRAFTS

In Arts Council Festival. Betty Ruth Curtiss of Princeton and Akiko Collcutt and Chris Craig of Hopewell are among the designer-artisans who will demonstrate, exhibit and sell their work this Saturday at the third annual New Jersey State Council on the Arts Summer Festival.

The Festival will be held at Allaire State Park in Monmouth County, and will run from 10 to 4. It will feature demonstrations of spinning, paper-making and the making of stained glass, and the technique of making felt by dancing on wet wool.

Live entertainment will be provided through the day by folk-singers, mimes and a story-teller.

"...YOU CAN TOUCH"

At Western Electric. An exhibit of "Art You Can Touch" has opened at Western Electric in the Corporate Education Center Gallery on Rosedale Road. The gallery is open to the public weekdays from 9 to 4 and weekends from 2 to 5.

Artists represented in the show are Linda Brown, Richard Gerster, Bunny Geller, Elizabeth Monath and William Barth Osmondsen.

Post 76ers Win Four of Five, Close In on Spot in Playoffs

It was an almost perfect week for the Princeton Post 76ers in Mercer County American Legion competition, winning four of five games and all but clinching a playoff spot in the process.

At 13-7-1, the 76ers are in fifth place, 12 points ahead of Bordentown, which is 7-12-1. In its remaining games it has a shot at catching both Ewing and Hightstown, currently tied for third at 14-5-1. Broad Street Park and Hamilton are tied for first with 17-4 marks.

The Princeton team solidified its hold on fifth place Sunday with a come-from-behind, 7-4 victory over Bordentown on Clarke Field. Trailing 4-2 in the sixth, the 76ers scored five times to nail down the win. Keith Ender and Dan Arendas had seven hits between them; Ender scored twice and Arendas drove in a pair of runs. John Marjarwitz won his fifth game of the season.

On Saturday Post 76 never trailed on the way to a 12-5 triumph over Lawrence. Princeton scored once in each of the first three innings, added three more in the fourth, one in the fifth, and three more in the sixth. Jim Scibetta led the winners at the plate, stroking a double and a triple, and driving in two runs. Arendas won his fourth game, against no losses.

Post 76's only loss of the week came Thursday night, when it failed to hold a 5-3 lead and bowed 6-5 to Hopewell Post 339 in Pennington. Hopewell is a team we should ordinarily beat," commented Pete Millington, the 76er coach. "We'll use this game as an example you can't take anybody for granted . . . although I don't think we did that. We just didn't play well."

Aside from a two-run homer by Keith Ender in the fifth, which staked Princeton to a 5-3 lead, and although his team collected nine hits — the same number as Hopewell —

Pitcher's Duel, Princeton began the week by knocking Hightstown out of second place with a 3-1 victory.

The game featured a duel between two front-line pitchers, Princeton's John Marjarwitz, who won his fourth in five starts, and Hightstown's Jeff Devenney who lost his second in six outings.

Both pitchers allowed only five hits, but PHS was able to score two runs in the first on two singles. With two out, Ender singled, stole second, advanced to third on a wild pitch and came home on Arendas single — his first of two.

Millington, who has had his players running all season, did not hesitate. He sent Arendas down to second, but the fleet left fielder did not stay there long: he stole third and came home when the throw at third carried into the outfield. Catcher Scott Ellis upped the score to 3-0 with an RBI double in the third.

Princeton backed Marjarwitz, who will enter Yale

In Princeton

Millington commented, "we really didn't hit the ball that well."

Starting pitcher Judd Petrone ran into trouble in the sixth when he jammed the bases on a walk, hits batsman and a single. Millington called on John Marjarwitz to put out the fire but Hopewell tied the game by scoring two runs on two fielders' choice then squeezed home the winning run on a bunt single by Mike Davis.

The loss hurt even more when Ewing, with whom Princeton was tied for fourth place in the league point standings, was upset by Mitchell-Davis, 2-0, the same evening. "We could have had it all to our own," mused Millington.

Earlier in the week, Post 76 stunned Trenton Post 93, its closest pursuer in the league, by taking an 8-0 lead after two innings. The streaking 76er squad needed the cushion as Trenton scored five runs in the last two innings before Princeton finally prevailed, 11-9.

Dan Arendas had another fine game at the plate for the victors. His first-inning double with the bases loaded scored all three runners. In the second inning, Arendas, who will enter Princeton University in the fall, plated two more runs with his second double and Keith Phox single home two more runs to highlight a five-run rally.

Arendas singled in his sixth run in the sixth to run the score to 10-4 before Trenton rallied in the last two innings. Six players accounted for all 15 Princeton hits: shortstop Scott Porreca had four and batted in three runs, Arendas had three and Phox, Ron Kane, Keith Ender and Jim Scibetta contributed two each. One of Kane's blows was a triple. Bill Bastedo (2-3) got the win.

When was the only time in big league baseball history that -- amazingly -- 2 brothers won the SAME title in the SAME year in the SAME league? . . . It happened in 1979 when the Niekro brothers -- Phil and Joe -- tied for the league championship for most games won by a pitcher . . . Phil won 21 games for Atlanta and Joe won 21 for Houston to lead all National League pitchers that season.

4 TEAMS PLAYING

In Women's Lacrosse League. The Princeton Women's Summer lacrosse has opened its season with four strong teams. Managed by Joyce Jones and Amy Fox, the teams play two games at 6 and 7 Tuesday and Thursday evenings on the John Witherspoon Schoolfields.

The 1982 summer season began with the Blue team co-captained by Anne McLusky and Barb Vanhorn defeating Orange, captained by Audrey Chen, by the score of 13-6. Chen and Cathy Talarick lead the Orange in scoring while Debbie Burks, Bernice Chen, and Birgit Enstrom all tallied goals for Blue.

The Gold team captained by

Doubles Deadline

Deadline to register for the women's doubles tournament sponsored by the Princeton Community Tennis Program is Thursday noon. The tournament is open to all. Play will start Saturday at the Princeton University Pagoda courts. Those interested may register at the Tennis Office, 71 University Place, or call 924-4343 for further information.

Rosalind Waskow defeated Red, co-captained by Sarah Burchfield and Kim Thomas, by two goals. Outstanding players for Gold were Anne Bakoulis with five goals, Roz Waskow with three; Karen Hendrickson starting Gold off with their first goal. Karin McNeill, a recent college graduate played an outstanding defensive game.

Blue's triumph over Red in the second week of play was due to its strong attack lead by Amy Brewer, Debbie Blair, and Bernice Chen. Birgit Enstrom, Sally Gorman, Anne McLusky and Barb Vanhorn had many key defensive maneuvers that kept Red out of scoring range.

Orange won its second game by defeating Gold 11 to 6. Captain Chen and Sylvia Greenspan each had 3 goals.

Orange maintained its winning streak in the 3rd week by defeating Red 11 to 9. Audrey Chen swept in 4 goals followed by Margie Rothberg and Sylvia Greenspan each with one. Debbie Cedeno aided the victory with several interceptions.

Blue, who also continued on a winning streak, defeated Gold 12 to 8. Blue's strong teamwork is due to Barb Vanhorn's and Bernice Chen's accurate passing. Defensive players Anne McLusky, Debbie Blair, and Amy Meyers made several interceptions enabling them to get the ball down the field to Debbie Burks whose precise shooting gave Blue 3 goals.

On Thursday night Gold defeated Red, 8 to 5. Roz Waskow put in four goals followed by Julie Popeno's two. Karen Hendrickson and Eleanor Gorman had one each.

The Blue team shutout Orange 7 to 0 to move into first place in the league. Captain Barb Vanhorn played a smart game on the field with her many interceptions and key passing, while sister Val Vanhorn had 13 saves in the cage

LEADERS WIN AGAIN

In Women's Softball. In the Princeton Women's Adult Slow Pitch Softball League last week, Mike's Tavern moved into sole possession of second-place by defeating Andy's Tavern, 6-0, and to within two games of first-place Conte's Bar, which routed Koffee Kup, 20-4. Andy's dropped to a third-place tie with Princeton Indoor Tennis Center (P.I.T.C.), which was idle.

This Wednesday at 6:15 at Community Park, Conte's vs. P.I.T.C. and Andy's opposes Koffee Kup.

Mike's, last year's league and playoff champion, which had lost its last two games by identical 4-3 scores, got back on track and played a solid game in blanking Andy's. There was good pitching by Lorraine Duthie (who allowed just seven hits), good defense (sparked by left center fielder Debbie Breithaupt and shortstop Clare Baxter, who participated in 12 of the 21 outs), and good hitting (14 hits), led by Kathy Shillaber, Debbie Ficarro, Missy McCloskey and Baxter, all of whom batted 2-for-3.

Although Andy's had three straight hits by Karla Pullen, Lisa Jablonski, and Carey Crutcher, it could not score, as Mike's kept cutting down the lead runners. For Mike's, in the bottom of the inning, Ficarro led off with a triple, Sallie Toscano also tripled, McCloskey doubled, and Grace Durland and Parker stroked singles for a 3-0 lead. Mike's added three more runs - sparked by a Breithaupt double and a Baxter triple - to take a 6-0 lead after four innings. Andy's Donna Woodruff opened the fifth with a single, but a double play killed the potential rally, and Baxter took a sure hit away from Andy's Donna White in the top of the sixth, snaring a hard line drive.

In the second game, called after five innings, under the 15-run rule, Conte's sluggers were led by Peggy Wood (5-for-5) and Carol Ann Mazzella (2-for-3). Also hitting well in the 20-4 triumph were Laine Ivan, Jackie Rock, Jill Bonin, and Theresa Foltiny. Cathy Burrough was the winning pitcher, fashioning a four-hitter. Judy Grisham, Barbara Rice, Joanne Rice, and Roberta Jones had hits for Koffee Kup.

Green was upset by Red, 5-4. The victors had a balanced attack, as Tom Sheehan, Pete Johnson, Bruce Cleveland, Joel Holmes and Troy Norris all scored once for the victors.

Bryce Chase scored twice for Green and Bob Littell and Ray Manyoky scored once.

PYS LEADS PLAYOFFS

In Babe Ruth League. Princeton Youth Sports edged Police Benevolent Association 4-3 last week to lead in the playoffs in the Babe Ruth League. The first team to win two games will be the champion. The PBA jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first inning, but Youth Sports cut the margin to 2-1 in the second. The losers went ahead 3-1 in the fourth, before PYS tied the score at three all in the fifth.

Jim Opperman provided the winning run in the sixth when he walked, stole second and third, and came home on a sacrifice fly by winning pitcher Dino D'Angelo.

Richard Dibanico had two hits and drove in one run for PYS. Gavin Hulsman led PBA at the plate with two hits and one RBI, Jim Sharp had one hit and two RBIs.

PRINCETON WINS FIRST

In Babe Ruth Competition. A team of Princeton Babe Ruth all-stars made their first playoff game a memorable one last Saturday night, beating Lawrence, 11-10, in extra innings in the first round of the District One Tournament. It was close to midnight before the contest ended.

Jim Opperman, Mike Blaxill and Andrew Bing all had two hits each, and Gavin Hulsman, Eddie Eccles and Dino D'Angelo stroked doubles as Princeton built up a 6-2 lead in the first four innings. However, Lawrence came roaring back with eight runs in the fifth to take a 10-6 lead.

Princeton responded with two in the bottom of the fifth, and two more in the sixth to tie it. Jeff Enslin drove in the tying run.

After both teams failed to score in the seventh, the contest went into extra innings. It's half of the eighth with two out and Andrew Bing on base, Mike Blaxill hit a long drive over the head of the left fielder to drive in Bing with the winning run.

Opperman had three RBIs, D'Angelo and Enslin two each. Hulsman picked up the victory in relief of Opperman, who pitched the first four, and Blaxill. Princeton was next scheduled to play Hamilton, which lost to Ewing, 5-2, earlier Saturday evening. All games in the double elimination tournament are being played in South Trenton.

ELKS HOLD LEAD

In PYBA Little League. Elks defeated Roma Eterna, 9-1, to stay on top and Engine No. 3 stayed a game behind by topping Post 76, 12-3, in games last week in the Princeton Youth Baseball Association Little League.

A 3-1 victory by the Eagles over Century 21 earned them a three-way tie for third place, while Italian-American Sportsman Club outlasted Engine No. 1, 11-9.

After ten games, Elks is 9-1, Engine No. 3, 8-2 and Eagles, IASC and Century 21 are all 6-4. Engine No. 1 (3-7), Roma Eterna (2-8) and Post 76 (0-10) trail.

FIRM IS ARCHITECT

For Renovation at NJIT. One of the largest site-built solar energy systems in the northeast is now under construction as part of New Jersey Institute of Technology's new Mechanical Engineering Center.

The building's $3.75 million conversion from a former automobile showroom, garage and warehouse into laboratories, classrooms, faculty research areas and offices is expected to be completed in time for the start of the 1983-84 academic year. CUH2A is the Princeton architectural and engineering firm that designed the renovation.

The construction of the new center will modernize NJIT's mechanical engineering facilities as well as free space in other facilities currently occupied by that department. The center's 50,000 square feet will contain 20 laboratories, including a solar research lab to be used in conjunction with a 2000-square-foot hybrid trombe wall, or solar collector, on the south facade. In addition, the collector will be part of the building's heating system, incorporating features of both active and passive solar systems to achieve energy efficiency at a reasonable cost.

According to Philip Collins of CUH2A, the building's own structure will be used as a heat sink to store the winter sun's heat for use during cold evening hours. Small fans will be used to guide the air, and integral overhangs will provide shading in summer.

Lloyd Bronson, M.D. and Arnold Young, M.D. of Princeton Ophthalmology Group recently attended a course entitled "Using Laser in Glaucoma" given at the Bethesda Hospital in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The laser is one of the newest treatment modalities in the therapy of glaucoma, and in some cases lessens the need for surgery. Glaucoma is a disease which, untreated, frequently causes painless irreversible loss of vision. Drs. Young and Bronson are, respectively, present and past section chiefs of ophthalmology at the Medical Center at Princeton.

Calvin Martin of 35 Greenhouse Drive, a professor of history in the Faculty of Arts and Sciences at Rutgers University, has been awarded a Guggenheim Fellowship for 1982.

The Guggenheim award will enable Dr. Martin to continue research for his next book, "The Biological Conquest of the American Indian." His research is currently being supported by a National Endowment for the Humanities Senior Fellowship awarded last year.

His book, scheduled for release by the Oxford University Press in 1984, will be a biomedical history of 550 years of American Indian health and disease, focusing largely on the effects of infectious disease and changes in diet on Indian health.

John K. Bleimaier of 32 Hawthorne Avenue won first prize for his vintage Mercedes Benz 190 D in the sedan section of the 19th annual June Jamboree and Car Show held by the Northern New Jersey Section of the Mercedes Benz Club.

Built in Germany in 1965, his Benz is in original and nearly flawless condition, he says, adding that in 1965 diesel fuel cost 16 cents a gallon. Although the car has tripped around the odometer twice, Mr. Bleimaier boasts 40 miles to the gallon from his pet Benz.

BUG-OF-THE-WEEK

By J. Drew Foster,
Entomologist

SQUASH VINE BORER

It's hard to find a backyard vegetable garden that doesn't have at least one or two hills of yellow crookneck or zucchini squash. And nearly every one will be infested with the squash vine borer unless control efforts are used.

Most squash family plants are susceptible. These plants are typically lush, green and heavy with fruit and blossoms, and then suddenly begin to decline in mid- to late summer.

The damage is due to the squash borer larva, a one-inch long white caterpillar with brown head, that tunnels through the squash vines. The adults are moths with orange and black bodies and copper wings. They can be seen now flying around squash vines in search of mates and egg-laying sites.

Basically, two means of control are available. One is to spray the vines to prevent infestation. This requires repeated applications to maintain an active residue on the vines. To reduce the number of applications, check your vines frequently and begin spraying when you see the adult moths or when you find brown, flat eggs laid singly along the stems.

If your vines are already infested (holes near the base of plants) or if you prefer to avoid pesticides, use manual control. Slit infested vines with a sharp knife, remove the borer, then cover the damaged vine with soil. Either way, a little control effort will increase your yield of squash.

Call us for plant pest control and pest management consultation.

* OUR PROMISE TO PRINCETON CONSUMERS:

IF YOU HAVE A COMPLAINT against any local business firm, call 924-8223 and a Consumer Bureau representative will investigate and mediate. Then, if you are not satisfied and:

IF CONSUMER BUREAU'S ALL-CONSUMER PANEL AGREES that your complaint is valid, the business firm involved has only two choices: either satisfy your complaint promptly or lose its Consumer Bureau Registration.

YOU CAN CHECK by phone any time you wish whether any local business firm you name is Consumer Bureau Registered.

(Not all business firms are Registered, but for every Registered firm we have been obliged to take off our Register, ten times that number of UnRegistered firms have failed to meet our standards of reliability.)

Nassau Savings Has Been Making Loans In Era of Hard-to-Find Mortgage Money

If it had not been for Nassau Savings and Loan, many prospective buyers would not have been able to find mortgage money here in the past year or so, realtors say.

With money in tight supply and much of it already loaned out at the lower interest rates of past years, commercial banks were not taking on new mortgages. But Nassau Savings and Loan embarked four years ago on a program of servicing loans by selling them in turn to the federally guaranteed Federal National Mortgage Association, creating what is known as "Fanny May" mortgages. Joseph Bandura, executive vice president of Nassau Savings, calls the process a never ending circle of turning the same funds over and over. "It is a way to allow us to service the public," he says. "If it were not for this type of program, many people would not be able to obtain mortgages."

The program has also enabled Nassau Savings to show a profit for the first six months of the year, which is rare in the savings and loan industry today. "For the first six months of 1982, we will have $25 million out in mortgages," Mr. Bandura said.

"So far this year I would estimate we have made 250-275 loans. We were averaging 10 applications at the peak of the season in late June." The mortgages are 30-year fixed-term loans to qualified buyers at 16 to 16½ percent.

There was a single week in the past four years when Nassau Savings did not accept mortgage applications and that was when the prime rate hit 21 and 22 percent and mortgage interest was at 19 percent.

"The real estate market is great in Princeton," Mr. Bandura says happily.

"luxury" market. This year, he says houses in the $70,000 to low $100,000 range are selling again, presumably as "middle market" clients have become adjusted to interest rates currently at 16 and ¾ percent, down from 17½ percent last year.

However, it's definitely not the "Golden Era" of Princeton real estate with lots of sales and clients rushing in to purchase a particular house before it even comes on the market. The result is that it takes longer, he says, to sell a house and the job is just beginning when the real estate agent puts buyer and seller together. The time consuming part is finding a mortgage and putting together the financing.

The tight money supply, high interest rates and uncertainty as to whether interest rates will drop are blamed for the sluggish market. To hedge their bets, lending institutions are devising various twists such as "adjustable mortgage loans" and "halloon" mortgages which have to be renegotiated in 2½ or 3 years. Owner financing is not as prevalent here as it was, say, in California, but the various types of mortgages and their implications for the buyer require more of the real estate agent.

Realtors agree that a house that is in pristine condition is much easier to sell than one that has been let run down. Prospective buyers don't want to cope with the hassle of fixing things up, and they want to know right off what their costs are going to be.

"There are glimmers of the market coming back to life," says Karl Light of K.M. Light Realtors. "But it's far from what it used to be even a couple of years ago. I don't know when—if ever—it will be the same again. It is impossible to predict."

A major factor, Mr. Light thinks, is that people are not moving around within Princeton the way they used to—to a bigger or smaller house, to a "better" location. That market has virtually come to a halt, he says.

One realtor expressed the view that homeowners who have held their homes for more than three or four years "are going to come out all right." Still another says that the homeowner moving to another area will be able to find a comparable house at a slightly lower price.

Pete Calloway of N.T. Calloway Real Estate sums it up. "I still think Princeton real estate is a good investment, although homes are not appreciating today as rapidly as they did four years ago. Prices are not declining, houses are seeking their own market value. There have been very desirable homes on the market, and they have sold for a very good price."

—Barbara L. Johnson

Housing Market

Were the assessments in these instances out of line? Or do the price reductions signal a levelling off, or worse, a downward trend, in what has been a thriving real estate market? The answers depend on who you ask.

Stuart Robeson Sr., longtime tax assessor for Borough and Township who was in office during the recent revaluation, says that most real estate transactions are "running pretty much on target—close to or quite a bit above the assessment."

Records of sales on file in the tax office are sales at $30,000, $37,000, $50,000 and even $118,000 above the assessment, but these tend to be sales on the bigger western section or Nassau Street homes. There are also sales that are within a few thousand dollars of the assessment.

Mr. Robeson says that a difference of less than 15 percent, either above or below an actual sale price is "considered to be within the realm of being accurate." The new owners of the Borough home purchased at $21,700 lower than the appraisal may file an appeal for a reduction by August 1. Stuart Robeson, Jr., as current tax assessor, has the authority to grant such a reduction.

If Mr. Robeson should decide that the present assessment is correct and does not reduce it, the Mercer County Board of Taxation will not consider an appeal by the new owners unless there is more than a 15 percent discrepancy between the purchase price and the assessment. This is to prevent property owners from inundating the tax office with requests for minor changes.

Aware that the 17-year hiatus between reassessments made it impossible to maintain accurate records, and caused considerable discomfort to property owners when revaluation did come, the Borough has contracted with a computer firm for computerized statistical revaluations that may be carried out every two years. The program is scheduled to be implemented this fall.

Realtors Differ. Realtors in town have differing views on the relation of appraisals to market values. Says Bob Dougherty of Stewardson and Dougherty, "It's very up and down. We have sold properties that are all over the lot in comparison with their assessments. What I'm afraid that it means is that the appraisal job was very uneven."

Mr. Dougherty says he thinks the appraisals are "not necessarily a really good indicator of the value of a property." A lot depends on individual characteristics of a property—subtle differences in the general condition of the house, which he says did not figure into revaluation.

On the other hand, Carol Caskey of Firestone Realty feels that there are very few sales that are below the appraisal price and that most are above. If they are below, it is because of special factors, she believes. Mrs. Caskey, like Mr. Dougherty, served on the committee of realtors that assisted the P. R. Jacobs revaluation firm, particularly in adjudicating differences with property owners after the initial assessments, and she continues to work part-time in the Township tax assessor's office.

Still other realtors say that they think there will be many more sales that are lower than appraisals before the present real estate slump is through.

Which leads to the question: How is the real estate market in Princeton? "Erratic," responds Mr. Dougherty. "Volume is down somewhat, 10 or 15 percent, and for the most part, sales are to people with considerable cash. But we are not dead in the water yet," he adds.

"Surprisingly good," says Todd Peyton of Peyton Real Estate. "There are some cuts, but I would say the only major price cutting is when houses are overpriced in the first place." Mr. Peyton thinks that Princeton property owners have for years "automatically" figured on an increase in the value of their property, a "habit that is hard to break."

He sees a levelling off of real estate prices here over the past two years but not the drop in value, in addition, that other parts of the country have experienced. "But when property prices level," he says, "we still have inflation, so the actual value drops, and that's what hurts."

Return of Middle Market. He finds it interesting that last year, when there was a money market rate of return of 20 percent or better, there were "very substantial sales" in the higher price range or
